The full program for Freshman Week, which begins at 8:30 a. m., Thursday, September 11, with a conference of section leaders and their assistants, in Memorial hall, has been sent to the printers and will soon be mailed to prospective students.

The freshmen will assemble at 9 o'clock in Memorial hall to be assigned to sections and will immediately report to their headquarters. Chairmen of sections are Prof. L. L. Dantzer, Arts and Sciences, men; Mrs. James Server, Arts and Sciences, women; Prof. L. J. Horlacher, Agricultural sections; C. C. Jett, Engineering sections; Wellington Patrick, Educational sections; W. W. Jennings, Commerce sections. The student assistants will be selected at a later date from the respective colleges.

The directors of recreation are M. E. Potter and Mrs. Florence Stout, assisted by faculty members of the physical education department. Physical examinations will also be given under their direction and that of the hygiene department.

Room 109, McVey hall, will be the headquarters for Freshman Week committees. C. R. Melcher, dean of men, is chairman of the general committee.

On Thursday, physical examinations will be given from 9:30 o'clock to 5 o'clock, exclusive of the noon hour intermission. Immediately following each section's examination, the freshmen will be sent to the Administration building for registration and payment of fees. At 7:30 p. m., Dr. A. W. During the rest of the two days, English, mathematical and psychological tests will be given, and certain hours will be set aside for recreation.

President Frank L. McVey will formally greet the members of the class of 1934 Friday night at 7:30 o'clock, and Major Meredith and Coach Harry Gamage will give short talks at the convocation.

Sunday, September 14, services will be held in Memorial hall at 11 a. m., and vespers at 4 p. m., including an address by Dr. A. W. Fortune.

On Monday and Tuesday the program will be taken up with classification and reviews of lectures. The reception given by President and Mrs. McVey at their home Tuesday, September 16, from 3:30 to 5:30 p. m., will conclude the week's activities. Recitations for all classes begin Wednesday, September 17.

THE KERNEL MAY BE SEMI-WEEKLYPlans Discussed for Change
to Two Editions; Separate Staff for Each Issue Would Be Required

Plans for the changing of The Kernel from a weekly to a semi-weekly paper are being discussed by faculty advisors and executives of the newspaper.

With the purchase of the new equipment for the press room this summer, the plant is mechanically able to print two issues of the paper. Such a change would necessitate the organization of two separate staffs, possibly under the direction of one editor-in-chief. Publication would probably be on Tuesday and Friday.

The student Board of Publications will consider the advisability of the new plan immediately upon the opening of school. All possibilities at present point to the adoption of the change, which would greatly enlarge the scope of The Kernel, making way for a later change into a daily publication.

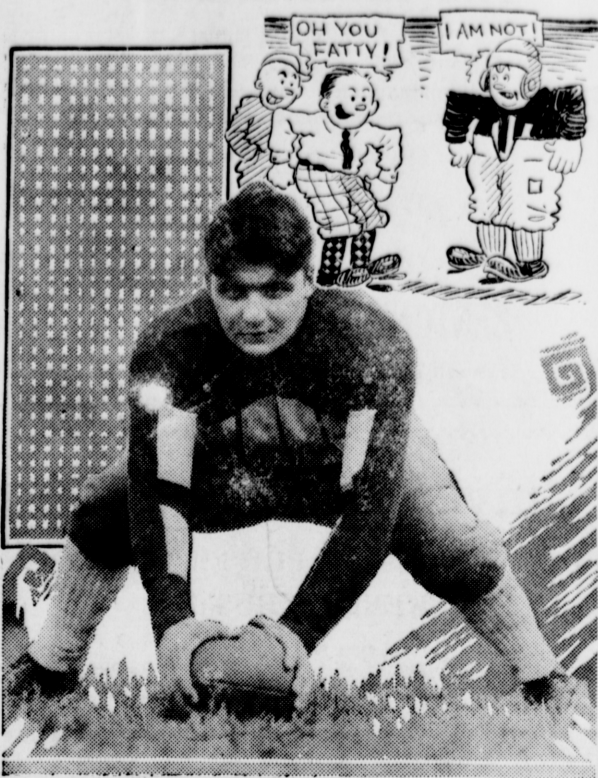

Wilbur G. Frye is editor-in-chief of The Kernel for the coming year, his term of office expiring March 15, 1931. Miss Frances Holliday is managing editor, and Morton Walker news editor.

ACCEPTS POSITION

Prof. George Ragland, Jr., who was an instructor in the Law College last year, and is a graduate of the University, has accepted a position with the University of Michigan Law School on the research faculty for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Custard have returned from Michigan and are at home in the McGregor apartments on Lyndhurst Place.

HERE'S ONE OF THEM

Howard "Fatty" Williams

When the important Monday of September 8 rolls around, Howard "Fatty" Williams, of Lexington, will be one of the first varsity football men to report to Coach Harry Gamage for fall training.

Activities in the Wildcat camp will stir up all the dust that has accumulated during the summer on Stoll field. By the time that registration is scheduled, September 15-16, the men on the squad will be getting the "feel" of the old mole-skins, and will have worked off a few pounds that have been stored away in the hot months.

Williams was known throughout the South last season for his brilliant work as center on the Wildcat team, and much depends upon him during the hard season of 1930. He will be a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences this year, and is as well known in scholastic circles as on the gridiron, having made a standing of over 2.0 last semester.

He was named unanimously by sport writers last year as All-Southern center. Gamage expects more than fifty men to report on the initial day of practice, including Captain L. G. "Floppy" Forquer.

Phi Delta Kappas
Initiate Six MenDr. J. D. Blackwell, Member of Summer Faculty, Speaker
at Dinner

The second initiation service of the Summer Session was held by Alpha Nu chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national educational honorary, on Friday, August 17, at the Education building.

The ceremony was followed by a dinner at the University Commons, and the members had as their guests their wives, and many prominent faculty members. Dr. Jesse E. Adams presided as toastmaster, introducing Dr. J. D. Blackwell, director of vocational education for Maryland, who has been a member of the summer school faculty. Doctor Blackwell spoke on "The Place of Vocational Education in the Public School System."

The new initiates include W. H. Sugg, superintendent of schools at Providence; M. E. Hearin, principal of Clay High school, Clay; W. F. Russell, principal of the High school at Clarkson; C. O. Spilman, principal of High school, Stanford; J. C. Eddleman, principal of High school, Crittenden; C. Byrd West, principal of High school, Niagara.

SAIL FOR HOME

After spending ten days in and near Paris, France, Mr. James Mollay's party, including several University students, will sail for home tomorrow.

College Degrees Not Necessarily Deterrents to Dramatic Success,
College Humor Tells Students

"Ex-collegians," Claude Binyon discovers in College Humor, "are sprinkled throughout show business so indiscriminately as to cause someone with time on his hands to wonder how and why they got there. A study of their academic training reveals that most of them intended to enter some profession, if they intended to enter any."

"Tim McCoy went to West Point and then turned into a cowboy actor for pictures. Ed Gorman studied for the ministry and awoke to find himself a monologist in vaudeville. Paul Whiteman, no less, once studied mining at Boulder. Richard Rindling, whose dad, John, collected considerable birdseed in the circus game, landed in opera after several years of intensive preparation as a student of electrical engineering at Montana University."

"Jules C. Stein, whose Music Corporation controls more than forty jazz bands, studied at the University of Chicago, Rush Medical College and the University of Vienna. He became an outstanding eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, only to return to the fiddle that helped pay his expenses through school."

"Richard Dix rested for some time at the University of Minnesota, not thinking of much in particular, and

M. E. Potter to Be
Intramural Coach

M. E. Potter, coach of the freshman basketball team has been selected to fill the position of intramural coach for the coming year at the University, according to the athletic department.

Coach Potter has been at the University for three years, having been intramural director in 1928. His department includes such sports as volleyball, diamondball, tennis, golf, basketball, wrestling, boxing, horse-shoe pitching and track.

He replaces Sid Robinson, who has taken a position on the faculty of the University of Indiana.

Two Organizations
To Have New HomesAlpha Xi Deltas and Phi
Sigma Kappas to Move
Soon

Two social organizations plan to move into new quarters before the opening of school. The Alpha Xi Delta sorority will change its residence from its present home on Ayresford Place to the house on the corner of Limestone street and Warren court.

Members of the Phi Sigma Kappa fraternity will move back into 211 East Maxwell street, the house they occupied three years ago. They are at present living in the house just west of their new home.

Both expect to be installed in their future quarters by September 8.

REGISTRATION

For Upperclassmen to Be September 15-16

With this issue The Kernel bids you goodbye until its publication is resumed for the next semester. The first number will appear on the campus Friday, September 26. Registration will begin September 15-16 and classes will start on Wednesday, September 17. Freshman Week dates are from September 11 to 16, inclusive.

U. of K. Faculty,
Students to Have Month VacationDeans Are Interviewed as to Where They Will Spend
Vacation

Now that the summer school is ending, and a month must pass before the school bell clangs again, vacation is beginning for students and faculty members. Many will spend the time resting at home in preparation for a busy winter ahead and some heed the call of the wanderlust and plan to visit other scenes.

As a representative group of faculty members, the deans were chosen for a glimpse into the plans for the month before classes are resumed at the University.

President Frank L. McVey is enjoying the pleasures of the lake-lands of Michigan in pursuit of his hobbies, fishing, sketching and reading.

Dean C. R. Melcher is hoping to get away for a short vacation, but has made no definite plans as to his destination. He is quite busy with the program for Freshman Week.

Miss Sarah Blanding, dean of women, will return from her girls' camp on the Kentucky river next week and start preparations for her year in England. She expects to sail the latter part of September.

Paul Prentice Boyd, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, will remain in Beulah, Mich., where he is with his family. They have a cottage on the lake there and will not return until in September.

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, dean of the Graduate School, plans to continue his excavation and research work in Trigg, Henderson and Crittenden counties until the opening of the University in September. Prof. W. S. Webb will join him next week.

Dr. W. S. Taylor, dean of the College of Education, and head of the Summer Session, says that most of his vacation will be spent in getting the new Training School ready for occupancy by September 10.

Dean T. P. Cooper, of the College of Agriculture, is in Minnesota visiting relatives, and plans to return September 1.

Dean F. Paul Anderson, of the College of Engineering, apparently loves the quiet of home in preference to the charms of other states, and will be in Lexington for his vacation period.

Dean Alvin E. Evans, of the Law College, will leave immediately, driving to Lincoln, Neb., with his family. He plans to stop for a visit in Missouri with relatives.

Dean Edward Weist, of the College of Commerce, has gone for a short vacation period at Virginia Beach, Va.

Band Instruments
Have Overhauling"Wally" Hoeling Returns to Lead "Best Band in Dixie"

About 90 band instruments belonging to the University R. O. T. C. organization, which have been overhauled this summer at various factories, have been returned to the music department and are ready for use at the opening of school.

Prof. Elmer Sulzer, director of the band, expects a larger group of candidates than ever this year. The Kentucky band, often called "the best band in Dixie," has grown within the last few years to 90 pieces, and is well known throughout the South.

Wallace Hoeling, the tall drum major who has led the band formations for two years, will retain his position for the first semester, when one of the two assistant drum majors will be selected to fill his place.

"Dixie," the last of the visual aids moving pictures shown at the University during the Summer Session, was exhibited Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in Memorial hall. The programs have been under the direction of the Extension department.

PROF. ROBERTS HERE

Prof. W. Lewis Roberts, of the Law College, who has been on a year's leave of absence, will be in Lexington September 5 and 6 on business. He is to teach next year at the University of Pittsburgh Law School.

Miss Elizabeth Duncan is visiting in Williamsburg.

CHANGES MADE
DURING SUMMERSociology, History, Philosophy Departments to Move to Education Building; Present Offices in New Building

When the University opens in the fall, students returning to the campus will find many changes and additions made during the Summer Session. Most prominent will be the new Teacher's Training building which will be ready for occupancy September 10.

The building is being furnished now, and equipment will all be installed the second week in September. Executives of the College of Education and the University High school will have their offices there, and the Education building will be occupied by the sociology, philosophy and history departments. The Extension department will remain in its present quarters on the ground floor.

The sociology department will be housed on the first floor, the philosophy department and history department on the second and third floors, and the military science department will have one classroom on the second floor. Offices will be assigned later.

The new library will have the exterior completed within a month, and is expected to be ready for occupancy late next spring or next summer.

The dairy building is also one which has been completed since the close of school in June, and has been in use this summer.

The Independent Tobacco warehouse, purchased by the University this summer, will not be refurnished until next spring, when the radio studios and several other departments will be moved to these new quarters. Some equipment has already been moved to the new building, and plans for its occupancy are progressing.

Another addition will be the 6,000 seats to be added to the stadium in time for the Washington and Lee football game.

Two new tennis courts have been completed for the use of the co-eds, near Boyd hall.

The small animal house has been built in back of the Experiment station this summer.

UNDERGOES OPERATION

Mr. Harry Blanton, student at the University, who underwent an operation for appendicitis last week in Richmond, is getting along favorably.

Sport Writers Are Dusting Off Old
Football Vocabularies as Dopesters
Dip Into Possibilities of Upsets

BY LAWRENCE CRUMP

Sports writers are dusting off well worn football vocabularies while the dopesters are filling up the old dope pail in preparation for its defense against the season's upsets. Football with all its color and thrills is with us again.

Advance notices from Alabama are to the effect that the Crimson Tide will be represented by "fast but fragile" backs, though boasting of a powerful line. Sounds like that story we heard last year about a small and crippled line that would be outwheeled and outplayed by Kentucky's forward wall. Here's hoping those backs don't measure up to that "Small, crippled" line that pushed back Kentucky's pride for their only defeat of the season. The Tide will miss All-American Tony Holm but we have an idea Mr. Wade will get along.

Another "promising sophomore" has become ineligible. Following Newman Boardman, "Dutch" Kreuter dropped out of summer school and will not be available for varsity competition this fall. "Dutch" had all the makings of a first class end and would have been a valuable addition to the squad.

The return of 210 pounds of experienced line material will help offset losses in the sophomore class.

AT LAST

Long lines at the Book Store, long lines at the dean's office, long lines at the registrar's formidable door. Seniors with a worried look, fearing that a last-minute grade will keep them from the goal which is at last so near—graduation!

For the first time, commencement in the midst of the beauty of summer, in the ripe fulfillment of August. Solemnity and ceremony, from the dignity of black gowns and caps and vari-colored cowls. The hushed and awed attitude of parents and friends who have come to witness the thrilling spectacle of Johnny and Mary stepping across the threshold of life, from the shelter of a loving Alma Mater.

Hardly has it seemed four years since the pursuit after knowledge brought you to college. But through the vista of those campus years are seen four stalwart arches, each a gateway to the next step toward graduation, the ultimate destination. And at last someone has provided you with the long desired paraphernalia of commencement, and here you are, a bit surprised and breathless that you have reached the end.

You had rather dreaded graduating merely by passing examinations and receiving your diploma through the mail, but the growth and progress of Kentucky, your Alma Mater, has given you a proper send-off. Are you not proud of being one of the members of the class which is the first to hold commencement exercises during the Summer Session?

Perhaps even more impressive is the mid-summer graduation, with its number of high degrees conferred upon those who have proven themselves worthy, than the regular one, which has somewhat more of the typical bustle and hurry of undergraduates.

We do not say goodbye to you who are leaving, rather a hearty "farewell!"

GOOD ADVERTISING

The other day large type on an advertisement caught attention from the reading matter in a popular magazine. "Schooling Raises Pay," it said, and the life insurance ad had accomplished its mission. Interest was aroused and the rest of the column brought forth facts of vital importance to those boys and girls who are wondering whether or not to come to college or to return to graduate. Therefore, we pass its message on to you and your friends, feeling that it expresses the case better than we could.

"Statistics show that, on the average, high school graduates earn $1.00 for every 72 cents earned by boys with merely elementary education.

"Maybe it is the boy next door—perhaps it is your own boy—who is eager, restless and ambitious, who would like to quit school and go to work. He has read of self-made men who had but little schooling. He sees no reason why he could not do equally well.

"Tell him that if he had a chance to talk to one of the big, self-made men of whom he has heard, he would probably be told, 'While I was earning a place for myself in business I studied at night trying to keep up mentally with my old school friends—even those that went to college.'

"In almost every kind of work, whether manual, mechanical, business or professional, higher wages and salaries, in the overwhelming majority of cases, are earned by the best educated and best trained.

"Apart from the greater enjoyment of books, arts and science gained through education—and just as a matter of cold dollars and cents—education pays the best dividends."

SCHOOLS FOR SCANDAL

In a recent magazine article, Dr. Frederick G. Bonser, of Teachers College, Columbia University, declares that high school and college classrooms have become one of the breeding-places for American divorce through negligence of home-economics study. He blames faculty advisors and deans in women's colleges for encouraging young students to set out upon a career, as opposed to marriage, leaving home-making and family life to those of less ability.

Many parents, says Doctor Bonser, seem to regard home economics courses as either inferior or degrading, while many teachers consider home-training as a subject "wanting in academic respectability."

While we feel that Doctor Bonser is entirely right in looking at marriage and housekeeping as a career which requires the proper training, still the responsibility cannot be laid as much at the doorstep of the faculty members as placed upon the shoulders of the parents. A child's impression of home life and marriage is derived mostly from what he observes at home. Sometimes, however, girls are really better fitted for a business career than housekeeping. Some can combine the two with happy results. All cases rest with the individual and her characteristics and talents.

We cannot see that college classrooms bring about divorces, in fact they seem rather to bring about a better understanding and status between the two sexes.

Our next door neighbor, Eastern State Teachers College at Richmond, is graduating 113 students from the summer session. Their exercises even include baccalaureate. We consider such a high number a record of which the college must be proud. Congratulations!

COLLEGE COMMENT

Authorities at Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., require the co-eds to take an afternoon siesta every day. The nap has an appreciable effect on the scholastic standing of the co-eds, according to the authorities of the college. We have a notion that such a plan might be of practical value in all schools. Personally, we would like to enroll in a full schedule of afternoon classes such as this. We have a notion that we would be present at every meeting of the class. And we wouldn't mind staying overtime once in a while!

Dr. Burgess Johnson, professor of English at Syracuse University, says that cuss words have lost their flavor. Exclamatory profanity, assertive profanity, and denunciatory profanity have all lost their power through familiarity, and now bigger and better swear words are the crying need of the nation. We'd just like to suggest to the professor that he ought to trail around with us awhile and do nothing but listen. And we bet that he has never loafed around a college newspaper office when things don't seem to be going right.

Erection of a bronze plaque in honor of the late James Melvin Lee, dean of journalism at New York University, is being planned by former students who were active on the University newspaper while they were in college. Professor Lee was advisor of the Washington Square Dealer, later the New York University News.

The middies of the Naval School at Annapolis have returned from their cruise to Europe, full of stories about Norway, Germany and—Paris. Their reception in Germany was most cordial and enlightening as to the real nature of the people they had been taught to hate by a war-weary parenthood.

Acacia, Masonic fraternity, has voted to abolish "Hell Week." The number of national organizations who have followed the dictates of sane, sensible and manly reason by doing away with this horror of freshman life is increasing steadily.

Wrestling has been made a Varsity sport at Ohio State University, and now the fight is on to place boxing as a similar headliner instead of allowing it to remain an intramural. Eastern colleges are making a go of Varsity boxing, why not Ohio State, if it can provide as much good material as it claims to be able to do?

It seems that the entire collegiate world is revolting on the "Hell Week" question. We notice that the University of Kansas' Men's Student Council has rid that institution of the practice by turning "thumbs down" on it.

Hundreds of students all over the country are receiving a varied assortment of degrees this month—and there is still talk of unemployment!

Miss Kathryn Gatliff is the guest of Miss Evelyn Alsover, in Big Stone Gap, Va.

Prof. and Mrs. Enoch Grehan are at French Lick Springs, Ind., where Mrs. Grehan is recuperating from the illness with which she has suffered all summer.

TO DRIVE TO MICHIGAN

Prof. Frank Randall, of the Law College, will drive next week with his sons to Leland, Mich., where his family has been spending the summer. He expects to move into his new home on Cherokee road this fall.

TO COLUMBINE GROWN OLD

Ah, Columbine.
 The days, that fleeting fast
 Bring sun and rain and snow.
 Could they recall the past,
 Would you know
 Pierrot?

And Columbine.
 Could life but hold one hour—
 One hour of madness'neath a silver moon
 From ways as separate as the winds
 that blow,
 Would you not ask for that lost
 hour of June,
 And Pierrot?

Yes, Columbine.
 Although your heart seems crushed Beneath the mighty burden of its woe.

When night in silence hushed Brings memory, I still believe you know
 A yearning for romance and love of life.

And Pierrot.
 —ROBERT GRAY, in "Letters."

 The beautiful wedding of Miss

 on Castlewood Drive.

The bride was lovely in a gown of white tulle over ivory satin, and wore a wedding veil which had been her paternal grandmother's. Her bouquet was of ascension lilies. She was a popular student at Transylvania University, being very talented in dramatics.

Mr. Sullivan has been taking special work at the University during the Summer Session, and recently was appointed principal of the Shel-

 has been a member of the faculty for the last two years.

CAMPUS CKERNELS

Tears, sighs, fond goodbyes —
woah, thar!—getting so sentimental that I'm becoming poetical. Really, this business of leaving college after having spent so many years prepping for it is not what it's cracked up to be. And the quaint feeling that a cap and gown gives you, well, you can imagine swishing around in one where anyone could see you.
Thank the All-Powerful Mercies for omitting this single file marching up to get the old sheepskin. That was the crowning insult to the senior dignity, of which we hear so much and see so little.

And still there stretches ahead
law exams to be passed before admittance to the bar, the small (but important) matter of getting a job
—and getting married. Not that WE are contemplating it, but many of the friends are.

For once the libraries and reading rooms have been crowded for the last week. And at last the professors have been reigning sovereigns of the day. When they hold the fate of the destination of your diploma in their hands, they have the distinct advantage, and sufficient revenge for the times you cut their classes, or slept through them.

Now that the annual summer firtations are coming to an end with the close of summer school, everyone is getting shined up for real business with all the possibilities that Freshman Week affords. And the fraternity houses and sorority dormitories are getting a new coat of paint for rush week. Again Limestone and Maxwell will be dressed by expensive and flashy cars loaned for the occasion.

But woe is me! I shall be graduated with the best of them. No more will I be holding its old lure, nor rushing give its accustomed kick. Alas and alack! (But at least I'll have a little extra spending money to call my own).

After a year of prowling about the campus in my Colonel's masquerade

I find that this University is pretty much as the others, except that the girls and boys are perhaps more indifferent than any I've encountered.
Nothing arouses their interest to any great extent. At least, not to the extent of getting out and doing something about it.

Goodbye to you all who have taken the razzing so calmly. Goodbye to you, Mary Armstrong and Dick Richards, we hope for the best —and to you, Phipps brothers, good luck in fighting for those berths on the team—goodbye to little Evelyn Ford, whose hair is ever "a la negligence"—to Martha Fowler Given, always remembered for that May

Day beauty—and immediately following we see Earl King Senft, king of melody—farewell to the Baucom, Combs, and Duncan trio, may they learn to play contract bridge — to Schuermeyer, Jack Woods and other companions in legal suffering — to the beautiful Eleanor Swearingen, who will take a firm hand with the Y. W. C. A. maidens—and I'd like to come to the wedding, Margaret Douglas. Goodbye to you all, especially to Clarence Barnes, upon whose already weighted-down shoulders
this column has been often mistakenly laid.

So for a few brief days life is like a story book, with incidents gay and

For the last time this summer I ask you to roam once again along Lexington's rialto. Some excellent entertainment awaits you next week while the present supply is not to be scoffed at by any means.

After making "The Pagan" Ramon Navarro discovered that his singing voice had wide appeal so he made "Devil-May-Care" and "In Gay Madrid," which were received with favor. Now Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer release his latest, "The Singer of Seville," which opens at the Strand Sunday. Charles Brabin, ever remembered for "The Bridge of San Luis Rey," directed this production which tells of a young opera singer who doesn't particularly care for a career. In true Novarro fashion he prefers love. Dorothy Jordan, the object of previous serenades by the star, again leans languidly from her window. Other members of the cast are Renee Adoree, Ernest Torrence, Nance O'Neil

and Russell Hopton.

—TLR—

The best short subject seen this summer, "Manhattan Serenade."

—TLR—

"Let's Go Native" is the title of the Paramount picture opening at the Kentucky tomorrow. It is said to be a musical burlesque on the standard wrecked-on-a-desert-island theme with all the trimmings in the way of feminine lure. Jack Oakie, now being billed as "America's Joy Friend," and Jeanette MacDonald have the leading roles in "Let's Go Native," which was written by George Marion, Jr. Of course, you remember Miss MacDonald in "The Love Parade" and "The Vagabond
King." She is one of the film's few women who can act, sing, and sprinkle sex appeal all over the lot.
One musical interpolation in "Let's Go Native" is reported to rival "Summertime." Guess I'll have to catch it.

—TLR—

The richest bit of irony that I have run across lately is a one-sheet poster of "All Quiet on the Western Front" on the recruiting office billboard with "Enlist in the regular army now" sniped across the paper. In the face of drawing the wrath of the faculty, it is my belief that "All Quiet on the Western Front" teaches more than ten college courses. The occasion is rare when Hollywood produces anything
so true, so striking and so impressive as this picture. By all means, see it.

—TLR—

The Ben Ali will house "Midnight Mystery" beginning Sunday. This Radio picture so-features Betty Compton and Lowell Sherman and is said to be a thrilling melodrama with not a little comedy thrown in.
With Lowell Sherman in the cast
this is to be expected for he is undoubtedly the best of dress-suit moustache twirlers not only for his villainy but for the rare touches of sophisticated comedy with which he presents his character. If you have a penchant for mystery farce "Midnight Mystery" should please you.

As other rialtos require a little roaming you'll hear from me again about September 26. Until then, you'll have to make out the best
you can. So long.

CAR OVERTURNED

A coupe driven by James Didiak Barnes, University athlete, was overturned Sunday night at Rose and Main streets by a truck whose driver escaped before bystanders could get the license number of his machine.
Barnes and his companion were unhurt, and the car was not badly damaged.
